

Smelt runs are peak on the coast

Outdoor

For an easy way to prepare your catch for the table, just fillet the fish, dip them in flour and fry in oil. When golden, just sprinkle along the top of the backbone, break the skin, then pull head to tail and everything comes free. It's simple.

When you're ready to cook, broil the fish on a grill over a charcoal fire. If you're not ready to broil, you can also cook them in a pan. The fish are very tender and delicious. They are also a good source of protein and vitamins.
